our mission

At AIM, we use the art of dance to nurture confidence, bravery, and resilience to inspire students to shine their authentic selves to the world.

our values

INCLUSIVITY

The AIM family is made up of diverse races, genders, sexual orientations, abilities, and backgrounds. We are a queer-owned, queer-affirming dance studio. Our dress code offers options for dancers to be comfortable and confident in their own bodies and gender expressions. We sell tights and shoes on-site to match all skin tones. If you've felt out of place or misunderstood at other dance studios, AIM just might be the place you'll soon call your Dance Home.

MENTAL WELLNESS

AIM is committed to the mental wellness of our students. We are a studio member of Danscend's Council, an organization dedicated to supporting dancers' mental health and educating dance teachers. Our faculty participates in weekly trainings to learn more about mental wellness in the dance studio. To learn more, go to Danscend.com.

BODY POSITIVITY/NEUTRALITY

As dance educators, we know it's not always easy to love your body. At AIM, we focus on what dance technique should FEEL like, not what it should LOOK like. We teach from an anatomical perspective so dancers learn about their bodies and learn to respect and appreciate their bodies in the process. We participate in the National Dance Education Organization's annual Love Your Body Week every November with age-appropriate body positivity activities in every class.
